

What there is to explain about Corona Vaccinations

Excerpt from the 767th contact of Saturday, 27th of February 2021

Billy ... but now we should discuss something regarding the rampantly spreading corona disease, and it is because of that which we have talked about together with regard to the vaccination against the rampantly spreading corona disease. However, about this you have said that the whole thing must not be mentioned with regard to sneaky machinations of certain vaccine manufacturers, which is clear and which Sfath, your father, had already said, about which I think there should at least be another word said once more, such as the prolonged suffering, the incidence of lethal blood clots in blood vessels of the brain, and so on, and in which case you particularly mentioned ... in this regard. We should also talk about ... one more time. Also about ... and the late effects and the fatalities as well as the blood clots that occur due to certain vaccines, such as vaccinations with the agents ..., ... and ... There is also more to say about the fact that new infections nevertheless occur after certain vaccinations ...

Ptaah We should avoid all that, Eduard, and that also includes the mentioning of designations and names, because in doing so ...

Billy Of course, I know I would be pestered, which is why I will just replace all the names with dots anyway, when I retrieve and write down our conversation, that is clear for sure. Regarding the whole thing, however, I think we should talk about everything in a somewhat paraphrased form, in order to be able to publish some important information in this regard. Although I have already done that in what I have now said, yet not in the form as it should actually be done more openly.

Ptaah What you are saying is correct, and in addition to that I would like to say the following, which I first did not really want to do, but now will. The corona vaccinations administered to the populations worldwide correspond to totally new mRNA products, some of which, according to our cognitions, pose the danger of the formation of antibodies against the vaccines themselves and even result in life-threatening reactions/effects. We have also noticed time and again that false statements and information are being disseminated to the public both by the government and by virologists and vaccine manufacturers, while at the same time important information for the people is being kept secret or insufficiently explained.

As far as vaccines are concerned, these are consciencelessly being tested unproven on human beings of Earth in the first place, which means a conscienceless and irresponsible intervention in the genetics of humanity and will lead to numerous deaths. Completely scruplelessly, the whole thing is going through a worldwide trial, by testing vaccines on uninformed and dumbed-down human beings in a rapid and short sequence, whereas usually test periods of 10 to 15 years are required before a vaccine can be determined to be largely effective and harmless to health, and can be used as a protective factor against infections.

Due to this consciencelessness of the vaccine corporations, as well as due to the equally consciencelessly acting national leaders, who approve the whole thing, tens of thousands of human beings die or suffer as a result of the vaccinations. In addition to all the disease symptoms mentioned, which we have already mentioned repeatedly since the open outbreak of the rampantly spreading disease, there are still many others that we have not yet brought up, such as muscle paralysis, facial paralysis, infertility, autoimmune disorders, erectile dysfunction, venous occlusions in the brain, heart and other organs, as well as miscellaneous organic long-term damage and lifelong suffering and so on, which may also be consequences of the rampantly spreading corona disease itself, as well as being caused by the as yet untested doubtful vaccines, of which ..., for which the vaccine manufacturers are not being held liable, but on the contrary, are taking horrendous profits. Human lives lose any value for both them and the national leaders, because all that counts for those incapable of leadership is their personal safety, their claim for might and their horrendous remuneration, which rests on the peoples to pay for with their tax money.

All vaccines so far, as well as all vaccines yet to come in the times ahead, correspond to experimental and unresearched products that may in the long run cause vaccination damage and side effects, as well as long-term damage, lifetime damage and deaths, and only correspond to the purpose of an immense human experiment carried out worldwide. And for this purpose, national leaders are already coming up with ideas of an obligation in terms of compulsory vaccinations for some populations, thus vaccinations are to be imposed in order to separate the vaccinated ones from the non-vaccinated ones and to provide them with special identification cards. The national leaders will also propagandise that only their governmental 'experts' know and are able to explain the truth and will also do so, while voices from the immature populations are in any case incorrect and are not to be heeded but ignored. Human beings who commit suicide, because they cannot bear all this any longer, are being disregarded indifferently and the whole thing is considered to be collateral damage. The governments are also not paying attention to all the human beings who, as a result of the rampantly spreading disease, are tormented with profound thoughts of guilt and feelings of guilt. In addition, the plights and problems of the human beings who have become unemployed and destitute, or who will become destitute in the future, are being fully ignored. This, however, is only until they can be exploited, namely by tormenting them with new fines, laws and taxes, in order to replenish the emptied state coffers that are being depleted by those in government who are senselessly squandering tax money, which they spend as 'support allowance' for companies and corporations, and so forth, that have got themselves into trouble as a result of a lack of financial reserves. Those becoming destitute, and objecting to this, are patronisingly set right and their objection is rejected, just as they – if they speak openly – under some circumstances are subjected to punishment and imprisonment for openly thinking or pointing out the errors committed by the leaders of the countries. The national leaders consciencelessly demand the populations to unconditionally believe and obey them and not to doubt their fundamentally wrong decisions and their equally erroneous deeds. They publicly denounce healthy, good and clear criticism as inflammatory, whereas they allow those to make profits, who support and help them to traumatise all those who contradict their lies, cheating, secrecy, imperious wrong decisions and deeds as well as manipulation of figures, and who publicly denounce all their wrongdoing. However, it is still to be said that every human being has to determine for himself/herself whether, how and what he/she intends to do regarding vaccinations and all that I have disclosed. I cannot, will not and must not give advice on the whole, since the freedom of every human being requires that he himself/she herself considers anything and everything, makes his/her own decisions and consequently also acts in his/her own person. My explanations and declarations are merely the result of my own observations and cognitions, and therefore do not constitute an advice or a request for any specific doing or acting. But we should now leave it at what you and I have said, because with what you and I have explained, too much has possibly already been said and might pose a danger to you....

Billy It is all right. You do not have to keep talking. You are right. But what you have said is immense, and never before have you spoken in this form, my friend. You amaze me.

Ptaah Even I, my dear friend Eduard, am allowed to lose my temper once in a while and ...

Billy It is okay, Ptaah. It is not a reprimand, but only a realisation. But I have something to say about it myself; namely that I have had such experiences with the government and its various public offices and authorities first hand, and not only in Switzerland, but also in many other countries. Also, Asket often told me that many people, who I inevitably had to deal with, and who flat-out feigned being well-meaning in front of me, were ostensibly friendly and actually helped me as well, then, however, disingenuously defamed me and probably thought that I was stupid and would not notice, when I was practically being 'hidden' and persecuted throughout my youth – and all of this because I refused to join a sect and believe in a 'saviour' and 'loving god', as Horat and her sect members wanted me to do. But these are stale stories that no longer bother me today, but which I had to take an immense stand against back then, in order to being able to live at all. But now something else: You said recently that it would be a long time before those in government and the peoples would finally turn to intellect and rationality, just as it would also still take a long time to accept the fact of what led to the rampantly spreading disease some 45 years ago. It is true that we were already talking about this at the time of the open outbreak of the rampantly spreading disease in November 2019 and then time and again, precisely when the rampantly spreading disease then became publicly known in December 2019. And everything we discussed, we also published, including that this rampantly spreading corona disease began to cause many deaths to a great extent as early as January 2019 – to be sure indeed already before that, though less so – as well as that the secret machinations of the revengeful American ... together with the anti-American Mao caused the whole thing to happen in the 1970s, through which secret laboratory activities began, which led to the origin of the rampantly spreading disease already in the 1970s. Already then, the first mutations emerged, which then proliferated in large numbers into the new millennium and claimed many human lives, because the rampantly spreading disease had not been recognised, and had been defined as being a different disease from what it was in reality. So it was able to evolve unrestrainedly since then by mutating in multiple numbers, until it was finally discovered in Wuhan, because in the last secret laboratory the whole group became infected through inattentiveness and took the rampantly spreading disease outside and spread it, in which case, however, all those involved also died. As to this, many questions from all over the world have repeatedly emerged since then, wanting to know what else will result from all this. So far, I only know about one person from Brazil who has been concerned with the whole of these facts and also ascertained who the American was who made a pact with Mao out of which then arose the rampantly spreading corona disease catastrophe.

Ptaah In this respect, nothing disclosing will happen yet for the time being, as we have ascertained by means of foresight into the time to come, for, on the contrary, everything imaginable is being done in order to obfuscate the truth and allow it to be forgotten. The WHO, the World Health Organisation, which is dependent on large amounts of state funds and is only able to exist therethrough, will be the one to obfuscate the entirety of the truth through lies, and indeed already in a few weeks, when again a WHO group, with permission from the Chinese government, will officially conduct further research in Wuhan, in order to find out the origin of the rampantly spreading disease. However, as we have recognised through our foresights, there will be elements in this grouping, who – so as not to bring the United States of America into disrepute as a result of the American's ... betrayal and revenge – will, through horrendous bribe money, make the truth impossible with cheating and lies, while defaming the facts and alleging that neither contaminated animals nor a laboratory mishap or laboratory accident have been the causative factor of the rampantly spreading corona disease. Also, the efforts about the alleged clarification will only constitute sham efforts, because in order to be able to fathom the effective facts and processes, the necessary and appropriate means will be lacking – as has already been the case with the first investigative attempt –, as a result of which it will also be the case this time through the investigative commission – that seems ridiculous to me – that they will not be able to fathom anything within the last week of March and by the beginning of April.

Billy Of course it cannot be any different, because on the one hand, the USA must always be flawless, even if it is through lies and deception, cheating and calumny, as has been the case since time immemorial and has also proven itself with Trample Tramp Trump. On the other hand, the heads of investigation could only find out the effective truth if they were able to travel back into the past and witness what actually took place. But enough of this, because it is just as pointless as it is with regard to those in government, who only talk big when it comes to the rampantly spreading corona disease and measures against it.

Ptaah This is true, because on the one hand, all of those responsible in all state governments only give bigmouthed senseless speeches and put forward insufficient measures against the rampantly spreading corona disease to quickly curb and put an end to it. On the other hand, there is also a large amount of contrarians, who, as intellect-rationality-less ones from various strata of the population, are inflammatory, and who with low intelligentum and stubbornly oppose the measures ordered by the state leadership, while others, who are also numerous, reveal their low intelligentum in such a form, by sticking to pathological-dumb conspiracy theorists, giving audience to their lies and believably falling for the whole thing. But this also comes about in other ways, as we have fathomed for the near future, because exactly according to what you mentioned earlier, ...

Billy So let us drop the whole thing for the time being, because the following is now due: it is about the current experimenting with corona vaccines on large parts of the earthly humankind, because what is being done in this regard by the vaccine manufacturing corporations together with those in government in all countries, in my opinion, corresponds to a cheating on the entire earthly humanity, but also to machinations that are contemptuous of life and to an acceptance of deaths. This is because the human beings are being utilised as testing objects for the vaccines without elucidation, which alone causes many deaths, but which is not stated openly, but is rather being kept secret by the manufacturers of the vaccines, as also by the national leaders, many of whom still profit consciencelessly financially by this, as also with other things and machinations, for example, regarding horrendous profits through shares and illegal earnings from trading in respiratory protection masks. I know all this, because Sfath and I have already ascertained this about 70 years ago, as you have also mentioned recently.

In addition to everything that is being done through the wheeling and dealing of certain politicians to the detriment of the citizenry by certain irresponsible politicians in order to enrich themselves, there is also the fact, through no fault of the virologists, that they are unable to recognise that the rampantly spreading corona disease can, depending on the case, in the event of an illness and successful healing, settle and deposit corona impulses, through which, on the one hand, the rampantly spreading disease may sooner or later break out again or cause a different illness. This is because – as a result of unsuitable medical equipment as well as unknowledge on the part of the physicians and virologists – these corona impulses cannot be detected, as also it cannot be detected, depending on the case and circumstances and so forth, that they can be passed on to other human beings after a recovery from the rampantly spreading disease and infect them and sicken them. If you could now say some more about the whole of the factors mentioned, then this would certainly answer various enquiries.

Furthermore, this has given rise to many questions regarding infections, such as, for example, if a person has recovered from the rampantly spreading disease, and if antibodies are present, and so on, up to what extent an infection may still be passed on to other human beings by those who have recovered, or even to those who have recovered themselves. It is also being asked what kind of side effects, for example, as well as late effects of vaccinations might occur, and so forth. Various persons would like to get answers to this, as neither the governments nor the experts on rampantly spreading diseases – at least that is what they call themselves – such as virologists and the like, release any information on this to the public; this is probably because they do not have an answer to it themselves thanks to their great intelligentum. And all these questions directed at me I cannot answer on my own.

That which I still remember from the 1940s from your father Sfath regarding rampantly spreading diseases, is that the corona virus – like any other virus – does not simply exist as such as a unit, but contains in itself, within its structure, so to speak, various hard-coded predispositions for further type-factors, through which transformations into new forms can emerge, as Sfath was able to explain to me very precisely and could also prove to me. He told me that these factors, which exist in every virus, as a rule, are only deposited in an impulse-based form and only become recognisable when a corresponding activity is called forth by the virus itself, through which a new species or variant only then becomes recognisable. This is at least true for the earthlings, who will lack the technology to pinpoint such impulses for a long time to come. For this reason, they cannot anticipate when new mutations will occur, which could already be countered in advance, if they had prior knowledge in this respect. And since this is not the case with us earthlings, namely that this prior knowledge will not be available for a long time yet, the rampantly spreading corona disease can be rampant with new mutations, as is presently the case. But this will bring suffering and death upon humanity, for the currently spreading British mutation, which is actually bad enough, will already be surpassed by a further and even more dangerous mutation, which, as I know from my time with Sfath, has been evolving in Brazil since the 4th of January and is now about to break out and spread. And this new mutation will in turn claim many lives, for which, however, humanity itself likewise bears the blame, as it does for all previous cases. And this is because the incompetent rulers, in their low intelligentum, are unable to think up and enforce that which would be necessary for the protection of the populations against the rampantly spreading disease. But it is also the fault of the ones of low intelligentum and simple-minded ones of that part of the populations, who in their delusion believe themselves to be infallible, invulnerable and immune to the rampantly spreading corona disease, and therefore ostentatiously violate the already inadequate orders of the governments. Thus, the new mutation that has already started running across Brazil, bringing new evils, will cause all kinds of terribleness. It will take another half a month or so, until this new rampantly spreading disease mutation will be recognised, because if I recall correctly, it was around the middle of the month of March 2021.

Our earthling experts, such as virologists, and so forth, obviously do not have a clue of this, and also know nothing about the actual content of the viruses, because in a way, they are only able to recognise the macro structure of the bearer of evil, as Sfath called the virus. Therefore, while the experts know that a virus does mutate, they also do not why, since they are not aware that a virus already contains the fundamental impulses of various types, which in turn contain various other forms of impulses, which – according to the outer appearance, that is to say, the outer circumstances – change, transform and mutate into new types due to the impulses given within their structure. And this is in accordance with a fact – which also applies to all other approximately 2.5 million types of viruses, that you Plejaren explain exist on Earth, which is about 1 million more than our earthlings assume – that applies to all viruses, which mutate continuously over time, if the appropriate climatic and environmental conditions exist for them. Furthermore, it is also the case that viruses, once they are existent, can never be exterminated again, even if virologists and so forth claim the opposite, because they are obviously unaware in their hypothetical knowledge that viruses are not exterminated, but continue to exist quietly, even when they can no longer be detected virologically and medically and so forth. And that the experts all have no clue whatsoever with regard to the real and profound facts, such as, for example, that – as with all life and also all non-living things, like viruses – everything that exists also carries within itself creational-energetic-swinging-wave-based impulses, which, on the one hand, maintain existence but, on the other hand, are also capable of evolutive transitions and thus of new forms. And all the earthly natural sciences lack this knowledge, as do all the other sciences dealing with everything in existence. And since this fact is fully unknown to the entire earthly sciences, no earthling has to date come up with the idea of taking an interest in and researching the higher SI prefixes beyond nanotechnology, in which case, according to Sfath, if I recall correctly, for the purpose of swinging wave impulse detection, a finest technology would have to encroach on the values of yocto technology. These, however, have a value of 10^{-24} and thus a degree of fineness that corresponds to one septillionth of a micro-unit of one metre, and thus a micro technology from which the earthlings with their still extremely primitive nanotechnology are still innumerable light years away, as is also the case with the time travel technology, which, depending on the case, belongs to the domains of zebi technology and thus to a microtechnology and to fields, the calculation-value of which I no longer remember, although Sfath had explained it to me. It was just a long time ago, and I also have not become any younger.

Well, the fact is that viruses – when they are no longer detectable – have only retreated and deposited themselves in some substances, materials and areas and so forth, in order to become active again at a suitable opportunity. This can be after months, years or decades, or even after thousands or millions of years. Therefore, if virus-related ailments, illnesses or rampantly spreading diseases vanish as a result of human efforts or because they peter out, then this does not mean that they are no longer in existence, but simply that they have retreated and are deposited somewhere in some kind of matter. However, sooner or later, or even after thousands or millions of years, they break free again in order to become active once more, when the appropriate and necessary circumstances, constellations, states, situations and elements, factors and conditions and any other aspects arise.

The whole of the present rampage of the rampantly spreading corona disease fundamentally means altogether that almost innumerable mutations have come forth from one virus, resulting in over 5000 mutations so far in this corona virus from its inception in the mid-1970s onwards, which have become more and more dangerous and will continue to be so.

Well, along with this, other persons are also asking various questions, which, interestingly enough, at present relate to the functions of the brain, so if you would like to say something of relevance concerning this matter in general. But whatever you want to say about it, you should explain it somewhat clearly, so that we laypersons can also understand everything correctly, because we from the common people are neither educated with regard to medicine, nor especially with regard to brain science, that is to say, neurosciences, which are areas of research belonging to the natural sciences, whose fields of expertise include the structure and form of functioning of the nervous systems. Personally, I am particularly interested in the functioning of the central nervous system and the brain, and thus also in the neural activity and the manifold functions of the brain, such as the memory performance, among others. Furthermore, I would be grateful if you could also elaborate on the various related disciplines in this context, such as biology, physiology and psychology, mathematics, medicine, informatics, robotics and cooperation, and so forth, because, unfortunately, I am all too insufficiently educated in these areas of science and no less than a total dead loss. Although I have a somewhat remote inkling of this and that, that does not satisfy me. So if I may ask you? ...

Ptaah You hide your light ...

Billy No, please stop that, that is nonsense. I am really serious about what I asked, as I feel the urge to learn some more than what I have retained in my memory from Sfath.

Ptaah Exactly, after all – I knew it. But I cannot meet your desire, since too much would need to be explained and it would go beyond the concept of our conversation. However, when I return from my prolonged absence due to duty, I will be pleased to teach you in any field of expertise you would like, at your desire.

Billy Thank you, Ptaah, my friend. Then you can now elaborate on what we have just been talking about.

Ptaah I can do that, but I will get back to you on that, since I still have time for this until the 15th of March. But now it is time to answer that which you have asked, in which case I will use earthly terms in my explanations for general understanding and will also have to explain a number of things about the brain in particular:

Regardless of vaccinations, many persons still remain infectious, just as there can be no guarantee that further infections are absolutely impossible in those who have been vaccinated and in those that have recovered from the rampantly spreading corona disease and with antibodies being present. Side-effects of vaccinations arise, for example, as a result of a quick death or one occurring later as well as a wasting away, in which case this may also lead to late effects that result in lifelong suffering. All kinds of organ bleeding and blood clots may also be the result of unsuitable vaccines. This happens while due to the rampantly spreading corona disease and in connection with untested and dangerous vaccines, blood clots can also form within a short time and quickly in the veins of the brain, thus causing life-threatening cerebral vein thrombosis. Therefore, such consequences may be caused directly by a corona infection or by vaccinations, precisely with unsuitable vaccines, such as those that are presently still very insufficiently tested. This may result in life-threatening reactions. If, for example, a blood clot forms in a blood vessel in the brain, this then leads to vascular occlusion and thus to a suppression of the blood supply of the brain, which means that a cerebral vein thrombosis occurs.

The blood supply of the brain represents the vitally important part of the circulatory system that regulates the processes in the brain in terms of the oxygen and glucose and other nutrients supplied to it, and which also separates and removes all microbial metabolic products and all carbon dioxide. Overall, there are anatomical and physiological characteristics that this system is subject to, which, since the human brain is integrated into an extremely high basal metabolic rate, requires a lot of rest and in this state already demands more than one fifth of the entire regular oxygen level of the whole bodily organism. Moreover, what is also important to mention relates to the nerve cells, which, contrary to other body cells, are not designed to cover and maintain their energy requirements adequately anaerobically, in other words, without sufficient oxygen. And as for cerebral vein thrombosis unrelated to the rampantly spreading corona disease, these are relatively rare, yet dangerous and can possibly lead not only to strokes, but also to death. Basically, it must also be explained that cerebral vein thromboses not only come about as a result of rampantly spreading corona disease infections, but may also be induced by various other causes, in which case a blood clot normally forms in the vein, which inevitably results in thrombophlebitis, that is to say, vein inflammation inside the brain. Therethrough also hormonal influences may pose risks for thrombosis, a hypercoagulability of the blood, which means a pathologically increased coagulability of the blood, which may subsequently result in intravascular thrombus formation, that is to say, thrombophilia. This means that this is the main factor triggering the Virchow's triad, that is to say, the causative factor for the formation of a phlebothrombosis.

The fact that cerebral vein thrombosis now occurs more frequently as a result of the rampantly spreading corona disease is due to the fact that the corona infection causes miscellaneous metabolic disorders, which increase the risk of thrombosis. Regarding that, an occlusion of a cerebral vein occurs, which then does not impair the blood inflow, but the blood drainage, that is to say, the blood circulation, resulting in a congestion of the blood and the risk of a swelling of the cerebral tissue. However, this turns into a life-threatening situation, because the intracranial pressure increases dangerously, namely because the brain can only expand very little within the bony skull. Hence, when the high pressure inside the skull increases, the whole thing becomes life-threatening and can quickly lead to death. In this case, there are no sudden pains – completely opposite to a cerebral venous thrombosis, in which arterial circulatory disturbances occur – as well as no neurological blackouts and so forth. Headaches, nausea and vomiting build up gradually, as do various paralyses and cranial nerve failures, such as seizures and disturbances of consciousness, and so forth, although changes also occur, such as a haemorrhage from a cerebral artery, which very much resembles an ischaemic infarction, that is to say, ischaemic stroke or cerebral infarction. This is therefore an effective stroke due to a sudden ischaemia, that is to say, decreased blood flow to the brain, that is to say, due to the narrowing or closing of the arterial vessels of the brain. If in that case the swelling continues for too long, then irreversible damage is caused to the brain or the whole thing ends with death, if the thrombolysis, that is to say, the blood clot is not quickly dissolved by early determinative physician directed and medical treatment. Also, infant brain damage may trigger epileptic seizures, the causes of which are often impossible to fathom, but which can trigger epileptic seizures throughout a human being's life and up until old age. In this case, the cause of epileptic seizures can be tumours in the brain as well as different types of brain disorders or vascular diseases of the brain.

If the brain is examined more closely, then it is not only an extremely complex and highly sensitive organ system, but also the most important organ system of the human being, which may be disturbed or even severely damaged by an extremely wide array of influences from within the body or from powers acting from the outside, and this despite the relatively good bony protection of the skull. Even the mildest form of craniocerebral injury, caused by a concussion of the brain, can be accompanied by unconsciousness lasting from a few seconds up to hours, but also by a temporary twilight state of consciousness or even a delusional episode, however, which can also lead to short, longer, long-term or lifelong memory gaps, which, to the best of my knowledge, is hitherto unknown in this respect in the earthly-psychological and medical sciences. If, for example, severe cranial injuries occur, such as massive bruises, then these have such a damaging effect on the brain substance that long-term or even just hours-long disturbances of consciousness, epileptic seizures – which in some circumstances may recur sporadically throughout life – as well as paralysis of the body or parts of the body may result.

A severe cerebral contusion may also lead to a ruptured bridging vein, which might bring forth bad consequences.

Any trauma to the head, even minor ones, can cause an epidural haematoma for a short or a long time, or even for life, which means that effusions of blood occur in the brain between the outer and middle cerebral membranes, even if it is only, for example, by bumping one's head against something. In this case, a haemorrhage occurs between the hard cerebral membrane and the cranial bone as a result of a vessel rupture. The resulting haematoma can cause a clouding of consciousness or even hemiplegia within minutes to hours, such as, under some circumstances, also becoming a long-term or lifelong ailment, such as frequent or sporadic headaches, nausea, fits of dizziness or migraines, and so forth.

If spinal subdural or epidural haematomas occur, damage usually appears in the thoracic or lumbar area, that is to say, fractures of the thoracic and lumbar spine, which is indeed rare, then these can also be consequences of a back trauma, and so forth, for example in the case of an increased bleeding tendency, which can also occur as a result of a lumbar puncture or after a puncture of the dural sac in the area of the lumbar vertebrae, in which case a cannula is inserted into the spinal canal at the level of the lumbar region and cerebrospinal fluid is collected. This, Eduard is briefly to be mentioned as being most important.

Billy Thank you, but if you don't mind, then I still have a question, namely, what is meant by multiple sclerosis, and also in what way is it connected with the brain and spinal cord, because that is just as unclear to me as is how I am supposed to explain a stroke to a person in simple terms, since I was being asked about that, too.

Ptaah Multiple sclerosis is an inflammatory disease of the central nervous system and in this respect affects the brain and spinal cord. The disease results from a focal disintegration of the myelin sheaths, that is to say, the insulating cover of the axonal fibres, and this is because the disintegration of the myelin sheath means that there is no longer any nerve conduction. Depending on the localisation, this results in corresponding failures, in which case, depending on the age, and indeed at any period of life of the human being, also tumours may develop in the brain, and these can be both malignant and benign. And concerning what is still to be explained with regard to the cause of the occurrence of a stroke: such results from an acute circulatory disturbance of the blood supply forming in the brain, due to which the oxygen supply is suddenly interrupted, because the nerve cells in the affected brain area mortify and atrophy.

Billy ... but now the following is still pending, namely what we have already discussed early on, when the rampantly spreading corona disease broke out in January 2019, which was then first discovered in Wuhan in December and has since claimed well over 125 million infections and more than 2.5 million human lives to date; this at least according to officially announced figures, which, however, will continue to rise to 140 million infections by the middle of the year, while the official death toll will also reach 3 million in the same period. What will be, however, all in all in every respect, is not what we are here to talk about, as your father Sfath had said for a good reason. However, the fact that misinformation is constantly being spread or informative important things are being kept secret, as well as obvious dangers are not being recognised, which in principle should be recognised, as will, for example, be the case in 3 weeks, when the international transportation by ship between Europe and Asia collapses and unleashes a transport logjam, which is actually well known. Yet the keeping secret or not-recognising of facts brings about harm to the populations as well as to the world economy, such as the keeping secret or not-recognising that already since December 2020, children and young persons are becoming increasingly endangered and infected by the rampantly spreading corona disease, and that now the whole thing is starting to become rampant among young human beings. The only thing that is not clear to me is why nothing is being reported on this in the public bodies for the purpose of public information, whether the 'clever' virologists have not yet ascertained this, or whether they and the governments want to keep the whole thing secret.

So that would be the one thing, but then the following now arises, namely, that which relates to the inadequate vaccines that were dumped onto the vaccine market – in what I consider an extremely conscienceless action for mere monetary rip-off and profiteering – in a fast track action without being tested, and which have also so far cost many human lives and caused human beings suffering from long-term ailments. The whole matter concerning the vaccine procedure in terms of the necessary trials, which usually take 10 to 15 or even more years in order to develop a real and effective vaccine, has been hastened within a few months since the outbreak of the rampantly spreading disease and has been thrown onto the vaccine market untested. And that is why it has come to this – because those with low intelligentum and those responsible at the WHO and the governments have consented to it – that the vaccine corporations worldwide can legally misuse the whole of humanity over years to test their vaccines on thousands of millions of human beings, unmolested and free of charge and, in addition, to be paid exorbitantly for their half-baked vaccination products in order to enrich themselves unrightfully. Something that the USA had already executed by the command and consciencelessness of the US President Harry Truman through such equally conscienceless bomber pilots, when they criminally and mass-murderously destroyed the cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in Japan with nuclear weapons tests, and thus murdered hundreds of thousands of innocent human beings. And this is an indisputable fact which is now being repeated with the rampantly spreading disease, in that, as a result of governments' decisions, many human beings are being legally misused by vaccination trials and are thus losing their lives.

Ptaah What you say is correct, because what is being performed worldwide regarding the vaccinations is an unparalleled large-scale and worldwide experiment, through which the miscellaneous vaccines are tested with regard to their correctness and efficacy, in order to, in a human-life-disdaining form, be able to develop an effective vaccine. Human beings are contemptuously and irresponsibly misused as test objects, while I explicitly make clear that no actual benefit for the prevention of the rampantly spreading corona disease is being considered in these tests, but only the results of the tests, which serve to find and produce an effective vaccine. The test vaccinations are intended to guarantee a benefit in finding an effectively efficient vaccine against the corona virus and its mutations, and for this a risk in connection with vaccination is taken in terms of life or death of all those millions of vaccinated ones. Only therethrough can the whole issue of vaccination make sense with regard to the rampantly spreading corona disease. And both the state leaders and huge masses of the populations are taken in by this and do not realise that they are being misused as test objects by the corporations that supply their vaccines and that they are possibly gambling with their lives. It is also a fact that, with regard to the test research, only certain age groups are considered with special attentiveness, namely younger ones, while older ones are not taken into account since they have lived their lives anyway, no longer work and thus do nothing for society and are a burden for it, consequently they should die quickly to make way for the younger generations who will use many pharmaceutical products for many years and line the pockets of the vaccine corporations with money. The human beings who are vaccinated all assume that the vaccines that are approved and administered to them are actually effective, but they do not know how well they work, what they effect and whether they are effective at all, just as they do not know whether the vaccine they have been administered will protect them against an infection or whether they will fall prey to severe suffering or illness or die from it. In any case, every vaccination always has an effect, but only the course of the test will yield what this effect will eventually be. If untested vaccines are being approved, and all of them are currently untested, nobody knows anything specific about how they work effectively, how well they work, what they will or can achieve, but rather there are only sheer hypotheses or assumptions, yet no precise cognitions whatsoever. With all the testing procedures being carried out by all vaccine manufacturers worldwide – consciencelessly on the willing and simple-minded ones of Earth humanity, who fear the rampantly spreading disease – it is assumed that through all these misusing tests, effective vaccines will have been developed and will then be legally used the following year. My observations in this regard on the 'gene-based vaccines', as they are partly referred to, are absolutely warranted, as is my observation that the data now available to us on the effectiveness of all vaccine products used to date is extremely doubtful and feigns facts that do not correspond to reality but engage in window-dressing, as you are wont to describe such machinations. The fact, which we have checked, is that the risk of any vaccine currently in use is greater than the benefit, thus every human being who gets vaccinated now is part of a huge and worldwide experiment, the outcome and effective result of which cannot yet be understood and can only be recognised in the future, when the final effects become apparent.

If we have a close look at the vaccine corporations, then there is not a single one that can assume and bear any liability as a manufacturer for its own vaccine product. Also with regard to emergency vaccinations, none of the vaccine manufacturers can guarantee an effectively beneficial effect, which means that if the worst comes to the worst, a vaccination can result in death, which is actually the case worldwide more often than is generally known, because it is kept secret and not admitted. Various national leaders, however, know this, which is why they are unsure about having themselves vaccinated, and this not for no reason. To say more about this would be superfluous talk.

Billy That is actually enough for rationally-minded human beings. Lately, you have talked about the fact that many corona infections cannot be traced by using swabs, but could only be detected in the organs themselves. Organs, when infected with the corona virus, are a particularly nasty factor of infection, because therethrough, without any discernible infection, those infected with the rampantly spreading corona disease pass on the virus to their fellow human beings, without themselves, as well as the others, being aware that the disease is being spread, because everyone is unsuspectingly being lulled into a sense of security.

That is one thing, because you further said that vaccinations may also be contagious, if the needles are contaminated by infective aerosols in the vaccination room, and if these then get into the blood during the vaccination process.

Ptaah That is probably correct, but this would be extremely rare, which however, will not change the fact that the rampantly spreading disease is still on the rise and this time indeed with the first wave of mutations, as I know from my father's annals.

Billy That is correct, but those with low intelligentum in government and among the virologists and so forth, still have not comprehended that it is not the 3rd wave of the original virus that is imminent, but that the 1st wave of a corona mutation is already in progress. This foolishness is equally evident among the earthlings in government and among about 30 per cent of the populations of the industrialised countries around the world, in which case these are even more densely of low intelligentum, which is why, unfortunately, as I have already said, the number of official deaths alone will soon exceed 3 million and the number of officially infected ones will soon pass 140 million.
